Part II. Activities and Operational Information (Must be completed by all applicants)

- 1 Provide a detailed narrative description of all the activities of the organization—past, present, and planned. Do not merely refer to or repeat the language in the organizational document. List each activity separately in the order of importance based on the relative time and other resources devoted to the activity. Indicate the percentage of time for each activity. Each description should include, as a minimum, the following: (a) a detailed description of the activity including its purpose and how each activity furthers your exempt purpose; (b) when the activity was or will be initiated; and (c) where and by whom the activity will be conducted.

1. 60%. (a) Research and publication on human and human-computer language barriers and methods for overcoming them, including on strategies for resolving and preventing ambiguity, and for making automated processing available for all languages in the world. Focus is on technologies that help humans use their native languages to express meaning precisely enough for computer understanding. Acquisition of skills necessary for advancing this research, including skills in syntax, semantics, grammar engineering, computer science, and artificial intelligence. Participation in conferences, seminars, lectures, and discussions in these fields. Purpose: to discover and develop better methods for computer-aided human understanding across language barriers and for human-computer collaboration. Directly furthers our exempt purpose: to advance the philosophy, science, and technology of communication and collaboration among diverse human and artificial agents. This in turn furthers the social welfare of our community by helping people function in more global communities and in virtual (human-computer) communities. (b) Initiated May 2004. (c) Conducted principally by our president Jonathan Pool and our director Emily Bender.

2. 25%. (a) Collaboration and communication with, and evaluation of, organizations receiving our support, by seminars, informal meetings, volunteer services, correspondence, and consultation. Until now there is one such organization, the University of Washington Turing Center (<http://turing.cs.washington.edu>). Our support instigated the university to establish the center, after about three months of detailed discussion. Our volunteer services there include our directors' membership on the Turing Center's Events Committee. Purpose: to assure that our support is utilized for productive research, publication, and conferences furthering our above-described purpose. Furthers our exempt purpose by leveraging the existing expertise and reputation of university scholars, not only developing such expertise internally. Permits existing experts to demonstrate possibilities and limits of new strategies for global communication and collaboration, leading to support by others if the results are promising. (b) Initiated May 2005. (c) Conducted by our president Jonathan Pool and our directors Emily Bender and Christie Evans.

3. 10%. (a) Miscellaneous charitable work. Study of social-welfare problems, particularly barriers to access to information about human rights and health care and genocide and other massive violations of human rights. Participation in discussion meetings with community organizations, including World Affairs Council, Current Events Book Group, Center for Communication and Civic Engagement, Cross Cultural Health Care Program, World Peace Through Law Section of the Washington State Bar Association. Purpose: to exchange information about shared charitable and educational interests with other organizations. Furthers our exempt purpose by enhancing our familiarity with potential collaborators and providing our expertise to others who might benefit from it. (b) Initiated May 2004. (c) Conducted principally by our president Jonathan Pool, with participation by our directors Christie Evans and Emily Bender.

4. 5%. (a) Asset management. Supervision of real estate management firm's leasing, maintenance, accounting, and asset-disposition work until our real estate was sold, all related assets and liabilities were terminated, and information needs of the properties' new owners were satisfied. Thereafter, review of investment newsletters and allocation of investment assets among mutual funds. Related bookkeeping. Purpose: to preserve and expand our assets. Furthers our exempt purpose by increasing what we can spend and contribute for that purpose. (b) Initiated June 2004; time percentage decreased from about 70% in June 2004 to about 5% in June 2005 and thereafter. (c) Conducted principally by our president Jonathan Pool.

- 2 List the organization's present and future sources of financial support, beginning with the largest source first.

1. Contribution of real property by Jonathan Pool in June 2004.

We do not expect to receive future financial support from any source.
